Forecast For London & Southeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Friday 21 May 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Cooling winds with occasional rain tonight. Sunny intervals on Saturday.

This Evening and Tonight:
Rain will be occasionally heavy overnight, but becoming confined to eastern parts towards dawn. Strong southwesterly winds, with coastal gales, will ease. Feeling increasingly chilly. Minimum temperature 7 deg C (45 deg F).

Saturday:
Sunny spells will develop as cloud breaks. Some afternoon showers are likely. Winds will ease and become westerly. Mainly dry and clear overnight, with low single figure temperatures. Maximum temperature 15 deg C (59 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Sunshine and Showers on Sunday, with strengthening winds, then a band of heavy rain Sunday afternoon, evening. Sunny spells and showers on Monday and Tuesday, some heavy. Feeling cool throughout.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.